Rice Market Report

Italy: Farmers do not want to sell, so all prices went up. However, we must distinguish the varieties that increase because there is no longer availability, such as Luna and varieties that went up just because farmers block the market, such as Carnaroli.

Some market players to show their disapproval refuse to go to markets and therefore at the same time are not buying anything. But for the moment farmers do not seem to have any money problem and can wait.

The situation of the by-products does not change much, they are always extremely difficult to find, the prices are stable enough but for the moment there is little hope to see them going down.
