Rice Market Report

Italy: Approximately 50% to 60% of the harvest has been completed to date. If the weather permits, the harvest will be finished in 15 to 20 days.

Farmers sell only the quantities of paddy they are compelled to sell, due to storage constraints or a need for cash within the next 30 to 60 days. They are not satisfied with the paddy prices; they say that prices below €470–€500 per tonne are not remunerative for them.

So, the assumption is that once the harvest is over, they will turn off the taps and stop selling altogether.

The quality seems quite good, but on round grain the processing yield is lower than that of the previous harvest, it breaks very easily. We should have a lot of broken rice.
